WASHINGTON—Increased camping will be made possible along the AuSable River in light of a $22,600 grant approval, Congressman Phillip E. Ruppe, R-Houghton announced today.

The grant, made by the Interior Department's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, will provide development funding for 18 new campsites, restrooms, two water wells, and landscaping in the Keystone Landing State Forest along the famous river.

"I am pleased the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation has recognized the great demand for camping spaces along the AuSable River," Ruppe said. "Together with earlier grants, the facilities offered those seeking recreation along this marvelous resource should be better than ever."

The site for the campsites is located on the south bank of the AuSable River and approximately 4 1/2 miles east of Grayling.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources is the grant recipient and will develop the sites.

The concert will be a cooperative effort of Grayling students in grades K thru 4, and Frederic students in grades K thru 6. The program will be held Wednesday night, May 22nd, at 7:30 p.m. in the Grayling Middle School gym.

Selections to be performed include George M. Cohan's "You're a Grand Old Flag," and "Yankee Doodle Dandy," the title song from the movie "Born Free," John Denver's "Leavin' On A Jet Plane," Sammy Davis, Jr.'s hit "Candy Man," and many all time favorites such as "America the Beautiful," "This Land is Your Land," and "It's a Small World."

Each class has had the opportunity of choosing which songs they will sing except in a few instances when several classes vied for the same song.

The natural enthusiasm of the students, coupled with a delightful assortment of songs, promises to make this year's Elementary School Spring Concert an event well worth remembering. See You there!

LEARN GUN SAFETY—The young man you see on the left is Richard Schreiber, and the other on the right is George Massela. They, along with the other fourth grade students, have been introduced to gun safety. Dave Bills is showing Richard a shotgun. George is examining a CO2 handgun with Steve Walters. The two men stressed safety and demonstrated how carelessness is a big factor in accidents. Dave and Steve dramatized an accident by pretending that one had shot the other. The point was well taken by the students to realize that a gun is always assumed loaded.

This Friday and Saturday Present "Fiddler on the Roof"

On Saturday evening, May 4 the students of Grayling High School presented their production of the Broadway Musical "Fiddler on the Roof" in a special premier performance. Members of the audience included Rep. and Mrs. Ralph Ostling, college representatives, invited guests and parents of the cast members. A special Premier luncheon was prepared by the High School Home Economics classes under the direction of Mrs. Capitola Westervelt, and was enjoyed by both audience and cast members after the final curtain.

Additional performances of this award winning musical will be presented on Friday and Saturday of this week. Curtain time is 8:00 p.m. at the Joseph Stripe Auditorium. Tickets may be purchased at the door on the night of the show or they may be purchased ahead of time at the Grayling Pharmacy located on Michigan Avenue in Grayling. All seats are reserved, thus the earlier the ticket is purchased, the better choice of seats. Two special performances will be presented on Wednesday and Thursday for students of the Frederic and Grayling Elementary Schools and the Grayling Middle School.

Members of Saturday night's audience were generally well pleased with the premier performance. The student actors did a very professional job with their production of this difficult to perform musical. Though there were some instances where scenery was not quite complete and on some occasions the scene changes were slightly longer than normal, the actors carried through without so much as a hesitation. The audience was especially impressed with the presentation of Tevye by Walt Kozicki and by the three production numbers with their intricate dance steps and precision movements. The audience was especially impressed with the appearance of the eight foot tall ghost of Fruma Sarah and her threat to Tevye.

The overall tenor of the plot was well carried through by the young actors, a task which has proved to be difficult in this production by experienced and mature actors. The presentation of the Chava Sequence by Mr. Kozicki was especially impressive. The sadness portrayed in the realization of Anatevka and the Exodus had a deepening effect on the audience but they rose to the occasion of a near standing ovation at the final curtain. When questioned, most of the members of the premier audience plan to attend at least one more performance of "Fiddler on the Roof."

Country Club News

The Men's League will start on May 14th this year. The League Committee, Bob Howie, Tom LaMotte and Bob Hannan, must have all entries by May 10th at the latest so the schedule for the year can be set up - nut sed!

Wrinkles in clubhouse operation are being ironed out and our greens keeper, Kenzie Jackson, and his cohorts are grooming the course with a fine-tooth comb. It's coming great, considering the cold weather. I suppose this should not be mentioned, but one of our avid golfers and well known members is looking for a new golf pull cart, with no trade-in.

Seems as though even mature men sometimes suffer a memory lapse in their haste to leave after a fine round of golf and the 19th hole. Perhaps the little woman is waiting at home trying to keep dinner from burning. Anyway, there must be some reason for a man to leave his golf cart behind his car, then demolish it by backing over it.

Well, the Hard Core Cronies did it again, they got in 9 holes last Sunday before it snowed.

Hartwick Pines Featured In Motor News Magazine

Crawford County's Hartwick Pines, Michigan's largest state park, with its 8,200 acres and magnificent 95-acre stand of virgin white pines, is lauded as one of the state's most outstanding travel attractions in Automobile Club of Michigan's May Motor News magazine.

The May Motor News is the first of six successive issues which is urging the publication's 1,170,000 member - readers to "See Michigan First" on their vacation trips this year. Succeeding issues will explore attractions in the Upper Peninsula, East Michigan, West Michigan, Southeast Michigan and in the Detroit area.

This first Michigan vacation issue extols Hartwick Pines, one of the last remaining stands of the magnificent forests that once covered Michigan, as one of the state's seven natural wonders.

"The trees here are so tall that they almost blot out the sun," Motor News comments.

"Oldest of all is the mighty, 300-year-old Monarch, a white pine 155 feet high and nearly four-and-a-half feet in circumference. It is large enough to provide lumber for a five-room house."

The article points out that Hartwick Pines forest also includes hemlock (one 109 feet tall) and oak (tallest is 102 feet). Wildlife in the park includes deer, raccoon, porcupine, chipmunks and many varieties of songbirds.

"There are posted walking trails," the article continues, "and an eight-mile-long automobile trail crosses the east branch of the AuSable River twice."

Other outstanding attractions at Hartwick Pines are: the Chapel of the Pines and an historic logging museum simulating an oldtime Michigan lumber camp complete with dining hall, bunks, kitchen and adjacent blacksmith shop, the article concludes.

Concert At Kirtland

Gerry Grossman, a rather eccentric entertainer, carries on a running dialogue with the audience and claims he can perform 95% of all pop songs recorded since 1955. Grossman is not a folk singer, he is an old Rock 'N Roll Beatle fanatic.

The concert will be held in Kirtland's auditorium. Tickets will be available at the door.

GRAYLING HIGH SCHOOL MUSIC DEPARTMENT

PRESENTS
THEIR 9th MUSICAL..

Fiddler ON THE Roof

Some Thoughts On The Production

The production of a Broadway musical is an art of collaboration utilizing the minds and talents of many people rather than just a few. The keen minds and talents of many students of Grayling High School, as well as their adult advisors, have been used in this production of FIDDLER ON THE ROOF which you will see this evening. All of those who have had a part in this production are to be commended, for with this production, the theater has taken a giant stride forward in Grayling.

To begin with, FIDDLER ON THE ROOF is a different kind of musical which makes it rather difficult for young companies to do; and secondly, this show has been put together here in the Joseph Stripe Auditorium which provided the company a much different atmosphere to work in and much unfamiliar equipment to work with. These two facts, when linked to a company with less experience than companies of the past, have made the production of this musical an often hectic and exasperating experience, but also a most rewarding one.

Because FIDDLER ON THE ROOF is a little different, I would like to take this opportunity to discuss it briefly. Normally, a Broadway musical is considered more of a musical form than a literary form; normally people leave a musical humming the tunes rather than pondering on the story. Not so in this show, for FIDDLER ON THE ROOF is the story of an oppressed people, a poor people whose very homes and lives are not only threatened by those who oppress them, but also by their own younger generation who weaken the position even more by breaking established traditions and customs.

Perhaps the most interesting aspect of FIDDLER ON THE ROOF is its lack of familiar commercial attributes. Here is a musical not only without its chorus line of pretty girls and fancy costumes and scenery, but a musical stained with genuine tragedy, and ending on a note, at best, no more cheerful than pathos. Yet there is real feeling here. Tevye's hot line to God which he never ceases to use, his passion and humanity, his relationship with his daughters, and, most of all perhaps, his compassion and understanding for the world around him make him the most unforgettable character in the modern musical theater.

Lastly, FIDDLER ON THE ROOF is a collaboration of many great minds in its originality. It began with the humorous Yiddish writings of Sholem Aleichem, then on to the talented pens of Joseph Stein and Sheldon Harnick. The lyrics are an integral part of the book. They both carry the action forward and go together with Jerry Bock's music to give the piece its authentic Yiddish feel. For example, how neat it is for the lyrics to introduce a Yiddish word, such as l'chaim or mazeltov, but in the same musical phrase also provide its translation.

To Lecture At Traverse

Individual freedom that really lasts depends upon an understanding of spiritual law, Roy J. Linnig, C.S.B., will tell an audience in Traverse City, May 16.

"In the search for individual freedom" Mr. Linnig will say, "we often encounter a paradox. We find ourselves in bonds just when we believe we're free! We lose freedom in a mistaken sense of what freedom is."

A Christian Science teacher and lecturer from Chicago, Mr. Linnig will speak at 8:00 p.m. Thursday in the Lars Hockstad Auditorium, Seventh at Pine Street at the invitation of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Traverse City.

Mrs. Grace Geiger, Second Reader at the Christian Science Church will introduce the lecturer. Mrs. Susan Schmidt, Chairman, is handling local arrangements for the event.

Mr. Linnig will tell of a young man who found freedom from the use of hallucinatory drugs through an understanding of spiritual law.

"Man under spiritual law" he will state, "enjoys true freedom always, not only physical freedom, but mental, moral, and spiritual freedom as well."

A former businessman, he entered the public practice of Christian Science healing in 1953. He was appointed to The Christian Science Board of Lectureship in 1963, and seven years later became a teacher of Christian Science.

"You're a Freeman!" is the title of his local lecture. It is open to the public without charge.

Pet Chatter

By Teri Andrews

This is the last in the series of lessons in obedience. During training, do not forget to let the young dog play. For the pet dog, "retrieve and fetch" can be a part of both training and play. This exercise can be started quite early and it can bring light relief to both the pup and the handler.

Choose a soft article to begin with, when the puppy is about 12 weeks of age. At this early age the puppy may show no inclination to take part in this exercise, in which case it is best to wait until it is disposed to do so. Throw the article a short distance away and tell it to "fetch." The puppy should trot off and find its "quarry." When the puppy reaches the article and picks it up, repeat the order to "fetch" then give constant encouragement for the puppy to return. When it does so, lavish plenty of praise. When the object has been released offer some food as a reward. The anticipation of this will quickly encourage the puppy to release the article. When the puppy performs well, and obviously enjoys doing so, make the animal bring back the object and sit it in front of you until the stick or ball is taken out of its mouth. The puppy can then be taught to move around its trainer and finish up sitting on his left hand side.

The puppy bought as part of a family must learn to fit in with children. Children must, of course, be allowed to play with the puppy, but must be taught kindness and be taught to use only commands selected during training. Children must not shout at a puppy, tease it, or lift it unnecessarily.

See that the dog has grasped and fully mastered one exercise before going on to another. A badly trained animal cannot be blamed for its deficiencies. These are the fault of the trainer and may be incorrigible, so it is worth taking the trouble to train a puppy properly.

Jack Pine's Stump

Last Saturday was one of those days when people seemed to care about others. For instance, the Booster Club had its paper drive to aid the Scouts, both boys and girls. Many turned out to help and a monumental amount of paper was collected by the volunteer workers and their volunteer trucks. I had intended to work on the paper drive myself, but became involved in a project of quite a different nature. That one had started a few days before, when some friends fell to talking about the Little Cathedral in the Pines, located a couple of miles north of the new high school on the east side of Old 27. So Saturday morning four and a half people met for breakfast and then went north to the Little Cathedral, built in 1950. Two of those were Catholic, two were not. The half-person was Jack Pine, who amused himself taking pictures, making notes and watching a pile of leaves burn. They raked, they painted, they lifted rocks and they made future plans. And they put in a vigil light, as the original donors had wished. The work is by no means done yet, but the little group hopes to have it all finished by Memorial Day. And I think they will.

After several hours, the other four decided they should go to Frederic for "inspiration," so I said I would stay and continue my job of the leaf-burning watching. About a half hour later I heard a south bound Penn Central train coming, its whistle blowing like mad. And it kept blowing, for about a quarter of a mile until it came to me. Penn Central and hospital employee, Irv McIsaac was in the cab - making sure I was awake, he said later. You know, those whistles make an awful noise. The kind of noise which would loosen the spikes holding the rails down - which may account for the reportedly miserable condition of all Penn Central railbeds.

Later on, a friend stopped by and offered me a cold beer. So there I was, sitting on a rock by the shrine, sipping the beer when my "inspired" friends came back. "Where did you get THAT?" they demanded. I just shrugged and pointed over my shoulder at the statue. I don't know what they thought, but in reality a silently expressed wish had indeed been granted. So maybe I wasn't very far off base after all.

Women Of The Moose

On the 20th of May we have election of new officers from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. upstairs. We would like a real good turnout for the last meeting in May so our new Senior Regent can pick her chairmen for the coming year. Also, we need eight women who will act as escorts. You will find it very interesting, besides being very pretty.

It would be nice if we can have better turnouts for meetings this year. It is much more interesting when we do floor work.

Come out girls. It is only one hour. If everyone is here a few minutes before 8 p.m. Start the new year work to earn your Academy of Friendship.

Jean Ann Gardiner, Publicity Chairman

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank the doctors, nurses and staff at Mercy Hospital for the wonderful care given Mrs. Howse while she was a patient; also, thanks to friends and neighbors for the cards, flowers and visits. They were much appreciated.

Along came Bob Traxler

Michigan has been the focal point of national interest on how the people feel about their president for the second time in as many months now, and the answer appears to be the same.

That answer to me is simple: The people who overwhelmingly put Richard Nixon in the White House in 1972 now have lost confidence in him.

First there was that special election for Congress in the Ionia-Kent county district, where Jerry Ford's appointment as vice president had left a vacancy.

A couple of Vans squared off against each other, and for the first time in 50 years, the Democratic Van—Richard VanderVeen—came out ahead. A democrat had swept Jerry Ford's old Rock-ribbed Republican district, running blatantly on the anti-issue of the president himself—and he had won, handily.

The message started to come through a bit more clearly to those of us who had been reluctant to believe.

And then along came Bob Traxler.

Across the state, on the other side of Michigan in the Saginaw Bay-Thumb area, the resignation of U.S. Rep. Jim Harvey to become a federal judge had created another vacancy in yet another heretofore rock-ribbed Republican district.

The combatants were chosen—James Sparling, a former aide to Harvey, and briefly, to Mr. Nixon, on the Republican side, and State Rep. Bob Traxler, a long-time state legislator with a sharp wit and a lasting ambition, on the Democratic side.

Again, the White House came front and center as the primary issue, with the focus even sharper because the president himself chose to come to Candidate Sparling's aid with a personal campaign visit to the embattled Eighth District.

Did Mr. Nixon help? Nobody will ever know. But Mr. Sparling lost, and Mr. Traxler won, again with a mighty handy margin. This was the first time since the deep depression years that a Democrat had ever gone to Washington from that part of Michigan's congressional geography.

So in Michigan the Democratic record was two-for-two. Twice the party of the president had struck out in seeking to hold the favor of voters in districts where for many years there had been little or no contest.

What does all this mean? I guess I'm as much an expert as anyone, so here are some random thoughts:

For one thing, it means most of the people are fed up with what's been going on at Mr. Nixon's White House. This broad indictment covers Watergate, the scandal in the vice presidency, the conduct of the president in running his domestic affairs, his income tax problems, the entire gamut of credibility and trust in the institution of the presidency.

For a second point, it means that voters are not bashful in doing what they can do to throw the rascals out. Many voters have crossed party lines, to "send 'em a message" down in Washington. Whether they'll stay put in a regular election remains to be seen.

For a third point, it means—as U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin has said—that "no Republican should assume he has a safe seat any more." And in my opinion, this includes all offices, from the township hall on up to the White House.

For another point, it means that most Republicans are going to run as far away as they possibly can from any White House strings in the upcoming general election. Gov. Milliken will face an uphill fight in Michigan, and he stated publicly after the Traxler victory that he feels a presidential visit on his behalf this fall would be "counter productive." That's a vogueish phrase that can be interpreted as "Mr. Nixon, stay away."

And for yet another point, it seems to me that the combination of the VanderVeen and Traxler victories—coupled with Democratic victories in four out of five special congressional elections in recent weeks—means that this will be a good year for Democratic candidates from the grass roots on up.

I would guess that Democrats will sprout in local races where they have not been seen in many years.

And why not? The signs all point to this election year as the year of the donkey.

Rehabilitation Seminar Held At Kirtland

Kirtland Community College, in cooperation with the Kenny - Michigan Rehabilitation Foundation, presented a one day seminar on the Kirtland campus, Thursday, April 25, 1974.

Dr. James Rae, M.D., the chairman and a professor of the Department of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, at the School of Medicine, University of Michigan, opened the program. He discussed the philosophy of rehabilitation for victims of stroke, accident, and neuromuscular disease.

Miss Helen Millen, R.N. rehabilitation nursing consultant for the Kenny - Michigan Rehabilitation Foundation, conducted the rest of the program which consisted of a lecture, two films, and a demonstration regarding the importance of basic nursing care in the prevention of secondary problems. This was followed by a question and answer period.

The seminar was well attended by Kirtland practical nurse students, interested students, and representatives from Tolfree Memorial Hospital in West Branch, King Nursing Home in Houghton Lake, Mercy Hospital in Grayling, Otsego Memorial Hospital in Gaylord, Alpine Center in Gaylord and the Central Michigan Health Department.

Students Celebrate Arbor Week—In celebration of Arbor Week students in Mrs. Knibbs Second Grade planted 33 pine seedlings and trees around the Elementary school grounds. The students realize in planting these trees they are helping their community not only preserve their environment, but also they are helping to beautify their surroundings. Thirty red pine seedlings were donated by the parents of Michelle Winingers and three small pine trees were sent by the parents of David Cox, Tracy Hull and Cheryl Dannenberg. We would like to thank these interested parents for making our project a success.

FOUR GENERATIONS—Roscommon resident William T. Patterson and daughter, Bertha Jean Cook, Trenton, and her daughter Bobbie Jean Keeton, Flat Rock. Newest member of the Keeton family, Dawn Marie, 6 months old. This is the first great grandchild in the Patterson family.

A job for body counters

You have probably worried about the employment problem faced by the U.S. military specialists who used to count dead enemy bodies in the Vietnam war.

It is only natural that the American public has lost interest in the number of North (or was it South?) Vietnamese killed. The war continued but, after all, we are no longer doing the killing in person. We still supply the guns but somehow it's just not the same thing when you don't pull the trigger yourself. Did John Wayne conquer Iwo Jima by parcel post?

But remember, Let's We Forget. Just because we no longer care how many enemy are killed, we shouldn't forget the heroic job of arithmetic done for us during those precarious days when it had to be done. We at home awoke every morning secure in the knowledge we would learn today exactly how many enemy were killed yesterday. And it was never a sloppy job. General Precise never announced "around 1,000 enemy died yesterday." He said "today's body count was 1,563 enemy soldiers, 543 unfriendly civilians who got in the way, and 15 Communist arms and legs not otherwise identified."

No patriotic American could help but admire the precision of General Precise and his counters. It was not easy to go into battle with a hand calculator instead of a rifle. It was not easy to make certain an enemy body, no matter how limp, was not recorded as dead until it really was.

Just because the body count is no longer necessary to our national survival, patriotic Americans should not forget the counters. We should be concerned about how they are getting along today. Other than working for the Auto Club on holidays, there's not a big demand for body counters in civilian life.

That's why I was so tickled to learn about Operation Sanguine. That's the Navy project that aims to bury a vast antenna under 3,000 square miles in northern Michigan. The antenna would be part of a radio communication system that would send messages to our nuclear missile submarines sailing at great depths anywhere in the world.

The idea behind Sanguine is beautiful. If the Russians push the big button first, they could wipe out the entire U.S. before we could push back. Our only survivors would be our submarines but they'd be so far underwater they wouldn't know what the dirty Russians had done. The problem is how to notify the subs so they can push their nuclear buttons and destroy Russia. Thus 2 nations would be razed for urban renewal. Planned Parenthood chapters could cancel all meetings, and the world would be safe for Democracy.

Operation Sanguine is the answer.

Right now the Pentagon is having problems with citizens who don't want the antenna grid buried in their neighborhood. Tests have shown that Sanguine waves cause mutations in fruit flies. No one wants hunchbacked fruit flies buzzing around his bananas.

But the Pentagon insists it will prevail. $60 million has already been spent on the project and it would be a crime to spend that much money without ever blowing up even one nation.

Naturally, General Precise and his commissioned counters have been active in Operation Sanguine. If the project is a success, there is going to be a mess of bodies to count. A job that size takes a lot of advance planning. It requires the same sort of precise logic that went into naming the operation.

Sanguine, in case you lost your dictionary, means "the color of blood."

Plan Buffet

There will be a Mother and Daughter Buffet, May 10 at 6:00 p.m. at the Free Methodist Church. You are invited to hear a young mother from Russia "Tell it like it is." You will thrill as you hear of life behind the iron curtain and be blessed by her beautiful testimony of what Christ has done for her. Mother bring your daughters and if you do not have one, come anyway. Just bring your favorite salad to share in the buffet. See you there.

4-H Garden Clubs Springing Up

By Willard Boserman, County Extension Director

4-H Vegetable Garden Clubs are being organized in both Crawford and Roscommon Counties.

Up Frederic way, Mrs. David Babbitt has a Vegetable Garden 4-H Club going. Mrs. Ray Rath, Grayling volunteered to share her garden space with 4-H club members. Although the members may also make a garden at home, sometimes they do not have a place to plant a garden.

Mrs. Joe Meyers, Roscommon has seven eager beavers signed up to learn more about growing vegetables.

Mrs. Steven Diss, St. Helen is getting her 4-H Vegetable Garden Club organized. Anybody in the St. Helen area who wishes to join may call her. The date or organization has not been set as yet.

Club members have an opportunity to buy a packet of nine different kinds of vegetable seeds for only a quarter. You can't hardly beat that.

With the price of food still climbing, many people are looking to little garden plots for supplement to their meals. Vegetables do supply the minerals and vitamins as well as some of the energy requirements in the diet.

The 4-H'ers are learning how to alter the soil in order to get the most production from the soil.

The vegetable garden leaders will no doubt accept new members. For some of you who haven't heard about the garden clubs being organized, call the leader in your vicinity.

Studies Arctic Conditions

EAST LANSING — The Arctic comes south this spring for John Sorenson of Grayling who is enrolled in a Michigan State University civil engineering course.

The course, offered in MSU's College of Engineering, emphasizes how to construct buildings, pipelines and roads in Arctic areas, while at the same time avoiding environmental disasters.

"Permafrost, the permanently frozen ground in the Arctic can be seriously altered by warm buildings and warm pipelines. Excessive settlement of the pipeline supports creates the risk of ruptured pipes and large oil spills. Proper design and construction are critically important," according to Dr. Orlando Andersland, instructor for the course.

Through their studies, students can relate to Michigan winters and the problems it causes, such as frost heaves, potholes in paved roads and ice damage to structures.

Sorenson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sorenson of 704 Elm St., is an MSU junior majoring in mathematics and a 1971 graduate of Crawford AuSable High School.

your week ahead BY DR. A.W. DAMIS

Forecast Period: May 12 to May 18

ARIES Mar. 21 - Apr. 19
Many under your sign will tamper with thoughts of a new romance. Warning! If so, prepare for an emotional explosion. Also, you face hazards in affairs of the heart.

TAURUS Apr. 20 - May 20
It's likely, very likely, that you will, unknowingly, betray the confidence of an associate. The point? Guard your words, especially, when discussing personalities at large.

GEMINI May 21 - June 20
Hold a tight rein on reason. It seems as though a fast talker, who will promise you the whole world - is heading your way.

MOONCHILD June 21 - July 22
According to your chart, someone who doesn't care much about what you think... is going to challenge your veracity. Keep facts and data in order.

LEO July 23 - Aug. 22
Trouble with persons in authority is on the wing. It seems as though most members of your sign have become a little too "pushy." Try diplomacy, this week.

VIRGO Aug. 23 - Sept. 22
No question about it, you are entering a most favorable cycle. An affluent group is now working in your behalf. That's not all - an enemy is now a friend!

LIBRA Sept. 23 - Oct. 22
Whatever you want to say to a member of the opposite sex... say it now! Your ability to persuade is at an all year high! It's up to you, however!

SCORPIO Oct. 23 - Nov. 21
A personality, now much stronger than yourself, is going to lead you ever so gently into a new experience. Advice? Avoid the bizarre with the other sex.

SAGITTARIUS Nov. 22 - Dec. 21
Take care of minor obligations, during this cosmic cycle. Your chart shows a neglect of responsibilities, which incidentally, could paralyze into a major reversal.

CAPRICORN Dec. 22 - Jan. 19
A clash of opinions, casts a shadow over your chart. Actually, you have been working on an opposite viewpoint - simply, for the sake of being noticed.

AQUARIUS Jan. 20 - Feb. 18
Hold it Aquarius! You are coming on much too strong. As a matter of fact, you are out to hurt someone's feelings. You'll need friends, remember!

PISCES Feb. 19 - Mar. 20
You are wide open for soft lights and sweet music. There will be overtures from the opposite sex, for some Pisceans; a few are heading toward the "eternal triangle."

Does GOD see the gap?

Whenever you hear about a generation gap, you can be sure you're getting a human, biased point of view. Each generation is sure!

Yet there is a divine view. It concentrates on the oneness of all generations... on all the blessings and opportunities that God continues to bestow. "His truth endureth to all generations," said the Psalmist.

When Great-Grandma holds little Linda in her arms next Sunday, she'll be thinking gratefully of all the gifts they have in common — from the Lord. And she'll be praying that Linda will be brought up to cherish those gifts.

The generation gap—like all differences — disappears when human intelligence grasps God's point of view.

Mother Earth

A few years ago Earth Day was a popular socio-political event across the U.S., an unusual mixture of seriousness and celebration of spring. Its purpose was to call attention to the budding ecology movement and to reaffirm the value of the conservationist ethic. This year, however, amid the energy crisis and wide-spread predictions of shortages, Earth Day and Earth Week both passed almost unnoticed.

Yet the ecology movement has made substantial progress. Most Americans seem aware of the dangers of polluted air, ravaged land and poisoned water and recognition is the first step toward solving those problems.

The reason more hasn't been done already isn't so much lack of good intentions as lack of agreement about effective, realistic solutions. And there was an unacceptable blend of elitism and unreality in some suggestions that conservation was more important than power, heat and light.

Recent shortages have validated basic conservationist arguments by underscoring the importance of global interdependence. The past few years have demonstrated vividly that Mother Earth is essentially a fragile planet with a precarious ecological balance.

But reminders must be continuous and above all reasoned, not the kind of scare-stories that were used in the past to arouse short-term emotional responses. Support is no longer automatically available to just anyone who wraps himself in the mantle of ecology. But we suspect it can be galvanized behind most realistic proposals that treat conservation and ecology as part of a broad social picture inseparable from economic costs and political realities.

Good News!

Some good news has come to light. An authority on the diagnosis and solution of management problems in government and business has said that federal pay scales are lacking in incentives. There is too little spread between the lowest and the highest pay scales.

According to Business Week magazine, the problem is particularly bad in the five top levels which include all presidential appointees and members of both houses of Congress—the top "ruling" hierarchy of the United States. Since the additional pay is relatively small, why should a minor functionary in the lowest category work his head off to achieve bureaucratic recognition as the head of a major agency? The heavy increase in worry and risk of exposure to the vagaries of political fortune would hardly be worth perhaps a mere 15 percent increase in salary. This is good news for the taxpayer. Maybe fewer people will seek government jobs if the salary at the top of the pile is not too tempting. Uncle Sam already has a $33-billion payroll and 2.7-million civilian employees. It seems like that should be enough.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

From Calvary Baptist Church

From Calvary Baptist Church
On Faith Healers

"Do 'Faith Healers' of today have the same gift of divine healing as Peter, John and others revealed in the New Testament? No, definitely not! God still heals people in answer to prayers of faith, but not through a special gift of healing."

It takes but a short comparison to see the contrast between "Faith Healers" of today and the healing gift of Peter. In Acts 5:15-16 we read of multitudes coming to Peter and "they were healed, every one." Even the shadow of Peter passing over them brought instant healing to their bodies. Most of the diseases "healed" today are psychophysiological or psychosomatic disorders, that is, they are physical problems directly related to the mind.

History reveals that Bible miracles have occurred in four "clusters": during the time of Moses and the beginning of Israel as a nation; during the time of Elijah and Elisha and Israel's apostasy; during Israel's Babylonian captivity; through Daniel and his three friends; and finally in association with the coming of Israel's Messiah, Jesus Christ. God's signs and miracles have been given primarily for the Jews. "Jews require a sign" according to I Corinthians 1:22. Apart from these "clusters" there have been only occasional supernatural acts. Even mighty men of faith like Isaiah, Jeremiah and Ezekiel performed no such miracles. Since the time of Christ great men like Moody, Spurgeon, Calvin, Luther and dozens more never performed such miracles.

In fact, we can observe the passing of divine healing as a spiritual gift within the Bible account of first century church history. Paul early in his ministry healed many people by miraculous means as recorded in Acts 19:11,12. Later in his ministry, God refused to heal Paul's own body, (II Cor 12:7-10). In Phil. 2:25-30 we read how Epaphroditus almost died and Paul couldn't help him. In Paul's second letter to Timothy he explained how he had left Trophimus at Miletus sick, (II Tim 4:20). In Paul's first letter to Timothy he instructed Timothy to "use a little wine (or medicine) for thy stomach's sake and thine often infirmities," (I Tim. 5:23). From this we learn that many of the choice ministers of God in the later period of New Testament history were chronically ill and required constant medication. Paul relied heavily upon the services of Doctor Luke.

Just as God gave Paul Doctor Luke, He has given you and me good doctors. If God decides to heal you by a miracle He may do so, but he doesn't expect you to ignore the excellent medical personnel, facilities and medication He has placed at your disposal. As for "faith healers" they are, for the most part, "spiritual quacks."

Dear Sir,
Have been remiss on two accounts in not writing you sooner.

First of all to thank you in correcting the spelling of my last name on the address label. Second, to tell you that I believe the new format of the Avalanche has made a great improvement in your paper.

Sincerely,
Ralph H. RoutierCong. Ruppe Joins Support For Arctic Gas Pipeline

WASHINGTON — Seven Midwestern Congressmen, including U. S. Representative Philip E. Ruppe, R-Houghton, petitioned the Federal Power Commission today for permission to join in an application for an arctic gas pipeline that is now before that agency.

In addition to Ruppe joining in the petition were Congressman John B. Anderson (R-Ill.), Les Aspin (D-Wis.), Bob Bergland (D-Minn.), Bill Frenzel (R-Minn.), Harold V. Froehlich (R-Wis.), and Dan Rostenkowski (D-Ill.).

If accepted by the FPC, the petition will "enable us to participate in proceedings which will determine whether the enormous gas reserves of the Alaskan north slope will go to markets that need and deserve them," the Congressmen said in a joint statement.

A consortium of 27 companies, 16 American and 11 Canadian, has filed applications for a 2600 mile gas pipeline complex from Prudhoe Bay, Alaska through Canada's Mackenzie River Valley to the Midwest.

The system, expected to cost $3 billion, could begin providing natural gas to U. S. markets by mid-1978, through a 48-inch pipeline that will have a daily capacity of 4 billion cubic feet of gas — equal to 700,000 barrels of oil.

While the trans-Canadian route is the only application now before the FPC, the El Paso Gas Company is expected to seek permission to build a 42-inch trans-Alaskan line for a system that will feed West Coast ports.

"Given the decision to go ahead with a trans-Alaskan oil pipeline," Ruppe said, "which, in effect, blocks Midwestern access to that resource for many years, the routing of the natural gas pipeline becomes critical to the energy needs of the Midwest."

"Under existing statutes, the entire question of the pipeline route will be handled by the FPC and the Departments of State and Interior," the Congressmen said in their statement.

"Barring unforeseen circumstances, Congress will have no role in this issue. Thus, the only way that we, the elected representatives of the people will be most affected by this decision, can ensure that their needs are protected is to intervene in the application process."

The Congressmen also noted that "the Canadian government has expressed strong support for a trans-Canadian-Midwestern gas line, and is prepared to enter into agreements with the United States concerning usage rights and ownership."

As intervenors in the gas pipeline application, the Congressmen will have the status of full participants, with the right to call and examine witnesses, subpoena records and papers, and have access to all information filed in the proceeding.

May is Double Bonus Month

May is "Double Bonus" month for fans of the Michigan Lottery with special prizes each week in addition to regular prizes of more than $1 million weekly.

The unique feature of this promotion is the special drawing on June 6, in which all May tickets which did not win a prize are eligible. The special "loser's" drawing will determine an estimated 180 winners of $1,000 each. Only tickets dated May 2, May 9, May 16, May 23 and May 30 which did not win a prize qualify for the special June 6 drawing.

Three bonus numbers will be drawn June 6 and an eligible May losing ticket matching two of the three bonus numbers will win $1,000.

Each weekly drawing in May also features a bonus drawing with an estimated 36 winners per week collecting $500 each. Again, a ticket for each bonus drawing must match two of the three bonus numbers drawn that week to win a bonus prize.

The "loser's" feature of this bonus requires ticket buyers to hang on to all their May tickets until June 6, when the special "loser's" drawing will be held. If past experience is any indicator, some people will lose or throw away a ticket which would have won a prize in this bonus.

Millions of dollars in Lottery prizes have gone unclaimed since the first drawing in November of 1972. Approximately 1,000 weekly $25 prizes go unclaimed each week (out of an average of 20,000 winners of $25 per week).

Eleven Super Drawing tickets worth at least $10,000 have never been claimed, along with 10 Second Chance tickets worth $5,000 each.

At least one winner is still outstanding from all but one of the bonuses conducted by the Lottery in the last year (the exception is the first Lottery Bonus during Michigan Week in May of 1973).

A giant question mark hangs over what's described as Michigan's second largest industry: agriculture.

The problem is fertilizer, its availability and price. Estimates of the shortage—caused because natural gas, itself at a premium, is the main ingredient for nitrogen—vary widely.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture, for instance, has projected a 5 per cent fertilizer shortfall across the country. But many consider that estimate extremely conservative, including the fertilizer industry, which pegs the national shortage at 15 per cent.

Michigan's shortage is bound to be tighter than some other areas, explains John Calkins, chief deputy director for the Michigan Agriculture Department. That's because Michigan is far from the nitrogen fertilizer supply, most of which is in the deep south, close to natural gas sources.

Another reason is increased acreage planned for Michigan this year. About 11 per cent more acreage, or half a million acres, are expected to be planted this year than in 1972.

Some of that land was released for planting by the federal acreage reserve program, while another portion has been added by farmers who might see the increase in food prices as an inducement to increase their own farms' output.

Then what is Michigan's situation?

Estimates of the state shortage vary widely too, but they're much higher than what the USDA and fertilizer industry project for the nation.

One survey of state fertilizer dealers, completed by the Michigan Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, shows the state faces a 51 per cent shortage of nitrogen fertilizer.

Another survey, conducted by the Michigan Corp Reporting Service, went directly to some 4,000 farmers to ask their predictions. Finding: Michigan farmers say they are still unsure of 80 per cent of nitrogen this summer.

Comments from individual farmers answering the survey are as widely divergent as the various projections by agencies.

One says he expects to plant most crops as usual. But another reports: "If the fertilizer price goes up and the grain price goes down, I won't need any." He's ready to throw in the rake.

How many Michigan farmers will react that way is anybody's guess of course. But it's safe to assume that higher prices for fertilizer will have some ramifications for the consumer—like higher prices next year.

A recent report that the state had located sources of nitrogen fertilizer "sufficient to cover Michigan's anticipated 1974 farm shortage" may have been misinterpreted by those not in the know.

The announcement did NOT mean that all is well. It does mean that farmers who want to pay much higher prices for fertilizer can get it from overseas sources. And those prices are in some cases at least double domestic prices.

Baring the Facts

Some lawmakers are taking it upon themselves to tell the voters what they're worth and how much they're spending of taxpayers' money.

Most recent among those making disclosures are Rep. John R. Otterbacher, D-Grand Rapids, and Rep. Michael A. Dively, R-Traverse City.

For the second year in a row, Otterbacher—who is sponsoring legislation that would require regular financial reports from many elected and appointed officials—reported his personal assets and liabilities. The lawmaker lists his net financial worth at slightly more than $22,000.

Dively detailed his postage, telephone and travel expenses for the last two years. That information is public record, but Dively says, "Like a lot of other public information it is sometimes difficult if not impossible for most people to find."

"Public officials have a responsibility to make it as easy as possible for citizens to find out how their tax money is being spent."

Strong Words

Gov. William Milliken predicts—not surprisingly, that voters will make their ballot decisions on the basis of which candidate is the "best," not on the basis of party and political repercussions from such happenings as Watergate.

The prediction is no surprise because that's been a basic Milliken tack for some time: Look to the man or woman, not just affiliation. (At least one of his closest aides was a Democratic official before joining the

"Help Me Read"

The Sixth Annual Compensatory Education Conference, sponsored by the Michigan Department of Education, was held April 22, 23 and 24 in Detroit at Cobo Hall.

Melvin Nunn and John Skoglund, principals of the Grayling and Frederic Elementary Schools, Irene Pettyjohn, Title I Program Co-ordinator, and Jean Weaver, Volunteer Aide, attended the conference representing the Crawford AuSable School District.

"All Children Can Learn" was the conference theme. The conference offered an in-depth analysis and demonstration of delivery systems that have been judged effective in meeting stated objectives and raising the achievement level of students.

It is through conferences such as this that new concepts in education are shared with administrators, teachers and interested people from communities throughout Michigan.

The representatives from Grayling took advantage of this sharing by attending several workshops and spent hours walking through the Exhibit Hall picking up ideas and information from the hundreds of displays exhibited by schools districts and commercial interests.

Republican governor).

Milliken's recent prediction, however, included some strong words.

Milliken said: "In the face of all efforts to blame the Republican Party for the actions of a few Arab leaders, for worldwide inflation that no country has been able to reverse, for the stupid and criminal activities of a few zealots who were not even part of the regular Republican organization—in the face of all these things, the people will decide in November that the real issue is which are the best candidates."

First Savings' 13th Office In Cheboygan

A stage of First Savings' continuing program of growth and progress will be marked on Monday, May 13, as the Saginaw - headquartered Savings and Loan Association officially opens its 13th area office in downtown Cheboygan.

The new branch office, located at 222 N. Main Street in Cheboygan's central business district, will be managed by Gary J. Myles, former assistant manager of First Savings' State Street office in Saginaw. Myles' staff will include Carol E. Niemi and Doris A. McCauslin, both residents of Cheboygan.

In announcing the opening of the new office, Richard E. Schenck, president of First Savings, said, "We're proud that we can again be a leader by bringing the ideals of thrift and home ownership to the people of this progressive Northern Michigan Community." Schenck added that the new office will serve the 18,000 residents of Cheboygan County, as well as those in surrounding areas, with the modern, sophisticated customer convenience features and financial service facilities that are available at First Savings offices in Saginaw and outstate Michigan.

The opening will launch a special 4-week "get-acquainted" period to introduce First Savings personnel and facilities to area residents. Adults will be invited to register to win one of the four $100.00 savings accounts to be given away by drawings. Free gifts of ball point pens will be given to all adults who visit the new office.

Myles, a native of North Bay, Ontario, joined First Savings' main office mortgage department in 1970, later advancing to assistant branch manager of the State Street office. He has received financial training courses at the American Savings and Loan Institute, and has taken management training instruction through the American Savings and Loan League. He is president of the Saginaw Valley Chapter of the American Savings and Loan Institute. Active in civic affairs, he serves as an advisor to a Junior Achievement group, and as a worker in local United Way fund-raising campaigns. He resides with his wife Rosemary, and daughter Stephanie Lynn, 1 1/2, at 207 S. Bailey in Cheboygan.

With the May 13 opening, First Savings becomes the first Saginaw based savings and loan association to operate a branch office in the Cheboygan area. The new Cheboygan branch brings to 13 the total number of offices which the Association will be operating in 1974. First Savings, founded in 1887, currently has 12 additional full facility offices in Saginaw, Bay City, Caro, Greenville, Clare, Oscoda and Grayling. First Savings will observe 87 years of service to outstate Michigan in 1974.

Insulate yourself against summer heat and winter cold. It's easy, inexpensive—and saves Natural Gas.

Our Natural Gas is your lowest cost fuel. But the less you use, the more you save. That's why thousands of homeowners took advantage of the low-cost home ceiling insulation program we introduced last year, under the direction of the Michigan Public Service Commission. And no wonder. It's easy.

Inexpensive. And a wise investment. It can reduce the amount of Gas used for heating by up to 17%. Help our nation conserve its vital natural resources, too.

Back by popular demand. Fact is, Michigan Consolidated Gas Company's home insulation program has proven so popular, we've decided to announce it again this spring. Because spring is a great time to insulate. Contractors aren't so busy, or if you decide to do the job yourself, your attic will be more comfortable to work in. Not too hot. Not too cold. When you're through, your house will be cooler this summer and ready for winter.

The heart of the program is ceiling insulation. Ceiling insulation represents the most significant opportunity for homeowners to hold down heating costs and conserve Natural Gas. Many homeowners can achieve fuel savings up to 17% by having six inches of insulation in their attic. Naturally, results for your home may vary due to architectural differences and heating habits. First, you can install the ceiling insulation yourself. It's a simple, do-it-yourself project — and economical, too. Many homeowners can wrap up the project for less than $100. To assist you, we've even prepared a helpful booklet that shows just how to do the job. It's available at any Michigan Consolidated Gas Company office and from many insulation dealers.

Secondly, you can call a contractor and arrange to have the work done. Or call us. We'll have one of our participating subcontractors install it for you. The cost? Many houses with up to 1,000 sq. ft. of ceiling area can be insulated for less than $250.

A payment plan to suit every customer. You can pay cash. Or, pay 20% down at the time the contract is signed. Then, simply have the remaining cost included in your Gas bill. Pay it off on your next three Gas bills with no interest or carrying charges. Finally, you can pay for the job over an extended period. Interest is only 1% monthly on the unpaid balance. (ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE OF 12%.)

Why not take advantage of this money-saving program now. You'll be helping your pocketbook. And helping America conserve its vital natural resources. Contact us for details. And if you're a do-it-yourselfer, ask for our free booklet.

If you're not helping to save hunting, you're helping to outlaw it!

At the turn of the Century when Fred Bear was just a farm boy in rural Pennsylvania, America's wild game had all but disappeared. There were virtually few whitetail deer for Fred and his father to hunt and just 500,000 of them left in America from the vast herds that browsed before the days of the "market hunters." The Bison had vanished. The elk had dwindled from 10 million down to fewer than 50,000. So it was with almost all wild game. It was then that America's outdoorsmen banded together under the leadership of young Teddy Roosevelt and other concerned conservationists to form the Boone & Crockett Club. In the past 50 years America's hunters have paid in over $2.2 BILLION into conservation coffers. They've saved America's wild animals through vigorous game management programs. Their efforts have resulted in that small group of 500,000 deer growing to over 10,500,000 today. Yet there are those who even now are trying to outlaw hunting in the courts. They ignore the threats of starvation and death by predator that often results in the agonizing feeding on the prey before it is even dead. They ignore 50 years of proof that hunting is healthy and good, that death by the hunter is usually sure and swift. The Fred Bear Sports Club is dedicated to saving the sport of hunting, gun and bow alike. We need your support today to continue our fight. Join us! Your Bear dealer has complete details.

Will you
hunting?

Mr. Bear: Yes, I want to help. Send me complete free information on The Fred Bear Sports Club. I realize that if hunting is outlawed, fishing may not be far behind.
